Choose the markets that matter to you

Partners can explore one city, several cities or the wider network. We start with your priorities: which markets, audiences and outcomes would make a partnership useful?

From there we shape the scope: regional brand presence, content participation, founder and investor conversations, local ecosystem relationships, or portfolio expansion.

How we work together

We identify the priority cities and objectives, agree on a practical role with the relevant local teams, then define the scope and commercial terms in writing.

Introductions and participation depend on mutual interest, fit and local coordination.
